Attention: Jennifer Tribulski, Esq.

Reference: Transition Mechanism for Generator Seasonal Testing

Dear Ms. Tribulski:

On March 28, 2014, PJM Interconnection, L.L.C. (PJM) filed revisions to Attachment DD of the PJM Open Access Transmission Tariff.¹ PJM explains that the proposed revisions implement a transition mechanism for capacity market sellers affected by changes to PJM's generating unit capability verification test procedures. Specifically, the revisions apply to those capacity market sellers that choose not to provide replacement capacity for the 2014/2015, 2015/2016, and/or 2016/2017 delivery years to cover capacity commitment shortfalls resulting from the revised capability test procedures. PJM states that the revisions are intended to address concerns that the revised capability test procedures, which are being implemented without delay in order to improve reliability, may place members at risk of being assessed capacity resource deficiency charges.

Pursuant to the authority delegated to the Director, Division of Electric Power Regulation – East, under 18 C.F.R. § 375.307, PJM's submittal is accepted for filing, effective June 1, 2014, as requested.

The filing was noticed on March 31, 2014, with comments, interventions, and
